SAM INSULL'S DREAM OF UNIFICATION

One Vast Public Utility Trust to Which Commonwealth
Edison Will Supply the Juice—Unified Politics
Controlled by the Same Influence.

BY N. D. COCHRAN

Now that Vic Lawson has given us a line on the steps about to be taken toward the organization of one big public utility trust in Chicago, I can predict with reasonable assurance other events that we may look for as part of the game.

You see these things are all worked out in advance. Even last year steps were taken to stage a Billy Sunday revival early next year. That means the good people will be stirred up by a strenuous crusade against Vice and Crime. The newspapers will be full of it, and you will see long rows of automobiles near the tabernacle, while the eminently respectable rich help boost the game along and get their morals laundered.

In the meantime we'll have a busy morals squad, crusades against cabarets and dancing and a generally active interest by the rich in the private morals of the poor.

There will be political organization, too. Big Bix needs a political
